

Press release.

cablex brings its Swiss network construction expertise to Germany.

cablex AG is continuing on its expansion drive by opening cablex Germany GmbH in Stuttgart. The company is kick-starting its successful launch on the German market with a major customer project. As a general contractor, cablex Germany GmbH offers comprehensive solutions in optical fibre construction, and customers benefit from a central point of contact for all network construction issues.

A major market with potential.

cablex CEO, Daniel Binzegger, stresses the importance of the German market for the company: "In Germany, we can consolidate our 20 years of knowledge and experience in network construction gained in Switzerland. The aim is to be a significant and reliable partner for upcoming grid construction projects in Germany. The market is very dynamic and so we believe we can also plan, build and maintain the best networks in Germany using Swiss quality."

Harald Fischer, Member of the Executive Management Team of cablex, and Marco Mundhaas, Head of Rollout FTTH, will act as Managing Directors of cablex Germany GmbH in Germany and are actively developing the structures for the future. The forecast is for around 20 permanent employees to be working in the German market by the end of 2024. The company is striving for organic growth by utilising its own employees and selected partners to serve customers in Germany.

From around mid-March 2024, cablex will provide regular updates and information about projects in the German market on its own website www.cablex-germany.de.
